"My name is Quade Young, and I'm a Journalism & Media Studies student with a deep passion for people and the stories that shape our world. I'm skilled in writing, editing, and multimedia content creation, and I use my YouTube channel as a platform to share meaningful stories and educate my audience about inspiring individuals, cultures, and global topics. My dream is to work in media or communications, using storytelling and social media to connect with younger audiences. I want to encourage curiosity, empathy, and a broader understanding of the world by highlighting both the beauty and complexity of life. Through creative, positive, and impactful content, I hope to empower the next generation to stay informed, open-minded, and inspired to make a difference."
